DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

2. Claims 1-3 and 6 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Kagan (2005/0006380 A1: figures 26 and 27 and paragraph 216).

Kagan discloses an electric heating coil (302) having parallel sections and connecting sections as illustrated in figure 27 between a mold base (306) and an inner mold insert shell (304). The phrase parallel to the generator does not have any real meaning and hence the parallel sections of Kagan meet this limitation.

3. Applicant cannot rely upon the foreign priority papers to overcome this rejection because a translation of said papers has not been made of record in accordance with 37 CFR 1.55. See MPEP § 201.15.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

4. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

5. This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

6. Claims 1-6 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Ajmera et al (4,839,127: figure 13 and column 5, lines 37-42) taken together with Kagan (2005/0006380) and Yoshikawa et al (3,880,973: figures 1-2).

Ajmera et al disclose a blow mold having circumferentially spaced longitudinal electric heaters (61) and additional fluid heating means (69, 62); however, the reference fails to disclose or suggest the electrical heater positioned between a mold holder and the mold or an additional electrical heater at the neck of the mold.

Kagan discloses an electrical heater positioned between the mold holder and the mold as discussed supra.

Yoshikawa et al disclose a blow mold having electrical heating elements at the outer portion of the neck mold.

It would have been obvious at the time of the invention to one of ordinary skill in the art to modify the apparatus of Ajmera et al by positioning the electrical heaters between a holder and mold as disclosed by Kagan because such was a well known manner of assembling a mold which allow for relatively inexpensive inner and outer molds which do not require embedded heating elements. It would have been obvious to modify the apparatus of Ajmera et al by using an electrical heater on the neck portion of the mold as disclosed by Yoshikawa et al as such was a well known equivalent heater for the fluid heating means (77) of Ajmera et al. It would have been further obvious to connect the two electrical heaters of the combination for combined automatic control of the mold.
